URIBL.com Bulk Emailing

Internet, 2010-04-01 - As URIBL.com approaches it's fifth year of email deliverability services it is pleased to announce the URIBL.com Bulk Emailing (UBE) project.

URIBL.com Bulk Email, not to be confused with Unsolicited Bulk Emailing, will differ solely in the fact that UBE project mail will actually be delivered. URIBL.com will place the domains used by the UBE project onto their new Purple list as soon as the registration is complete to ensure the fastest response time possible, before moving onto Black when the mailing has completed. As Purple is available exclusively to URIBL.com staff they are able to ensure delivery to the end users, whilst seamlessly integrating with their mission statement to list domains involved in such campaigns; a truly holistic combination which will guarantee 100% accuracy in the core metrics whilst diversifying into this new infrastructure to ensure sustainability.

URIBL.com will continue to blacklist all other ESP competition in line with current best practices until it holds a majority of the bulk mailing marketshare.
